

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES:

A WORLD OF OPPORTUNITIES

FLORENCE
SUMMER INSTITUTE
2019

EMOTIONS, CULTURE & HEALTH - PSYCH

In this class, we will investigate the science of emotions and health as well as the broader role that emotions play in society. In particular, we will participate in a century-old debate as to the underlying nature of emotion: biological vs. cultural. We will investigate the evidence outside of the classroom by observing people in the world as well as representations of emotion in culture, visiting museums and well-known tourist destinations. Our primary goal: to resolve this debate based on our work throughout the course during readings, in-class discussion, and outside class observation.

Instructor: Dr. Karin Coifman.

Priority deadline (to be eligible for group flight): February 1, 2019

Questions? Please feel free to contact:

Dr. Karin Coifman

Associate Professor Department of Psychology
kcoifman@kent.edu | 330-672-9155

Dr. Kristin Stasiowski

Assistant Dean
International Programs and Education Abroad
kstasiow@kent.edu | (330) 672-1809

Amber Cruyton

Assistant Director Education Abroad, Office of Global Education
acruxton@kent.edu | (330) 672-7975

This course could be subject to cancellation in the event of low enrollment numbers. If you are seriously interested in this course, please contact the instructor or Amber Cruyton.

College of Arts and Sciences
International Programs and Education Abroad

travel@kent.edu
www.kent.edu/CAS/StudyAbroad
f t i p @KSUCAStravel