The Kent State study abroad programs give our students the experience of living and working in a different culture while learning about finance, politics, and communication on a global level.

Dr. Stan Wearden, Dean of CCI

Information about this program is available from:
School of Communication Studies
Taylor Hall Room 135
Kent, Ohio 44242-0001
E-mail: comm@kent.edu
Phone: (330) 672-2659
website: www.kent.edu/comm

Kent State is ranked among the nation's 77 public research universities demonstrating high-research activity by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching.

Times Higher Education, ranked Kent State as one of the top 200 universities in the world in for two consecutive years in 2010 and 2011.

Kent State was also noted in the first-tier list of Best National Universities in the 2012 edition of Best Colleges by U.S. News & World Report, and was recently ranked among the top 500 universities according to the 2011 Academic Ranking of World Universities.

Founded in 1910, today Kent State University's eight-campus system is among the largest regional systems in the country. Kent State is also recognized internationally as one of the premiere Ohio universities.

Florence, Italy, is one of the locations of the multi-disciplinary semester abroad program.

Want to Know More? Contact or Visit Us 你想知道更多嗎？歡迎聯繫我們
c्या आप अधिक जानना चाहते हों? हमसे संपर्क करें.
¿Quieres saber más? Póngase en contacto con nosotros.
The very ways in which we communicate and with whom we communicate are changing rapidly in a globalizing but also fragmented world. The sheer speed of communication, the changing nature of interaction, the variety of informal as well as formal networks, and the diverse forms of social movements are but a few ways in which changes in communication across the planet demand our attention and are contributing to new understandings of “how the world works.”

The Global Communication BA program provides exposure to comparative group and organizational practices, a variety of types of communication networks, and a range of issues directly relevant to the engagement of multiculturalism at home and interaction abroad. Our program helps equip students to for careers related to multicultural and multi-national management, diplomacy, the leadership of non-governmental organizations, international information architecture, the design of international media campaigns, and for new and creative positions in the coordination of communication practices in all sectors.

Organizations of all types are either operating globally or are affected by global trends. Theoretical knowledge, comparative analysis, and practical skills related to global communication will be in even higher demand in the future, particularly as the shapes of work, organizations, and careers change further.

Globalization is a communication concept and is possible in large part because of the growth in communication technologies like the Internet and mobile media. In an increasingly interconnected and complex world, communication studies has become the central field for 21st century employment.

The Global Communication Major is a 121-credit degree with a minimum 2.25 GPA required in the major and a 2.0 cumulative GPA required for graduation.

Kent State colleagues at the Great Wall of China. Dr. Mei-Chen Lin, School of Communication Studies, and Theodore R. McKown, associate director of international affairs in the Office of International Affairs.