University Teaching Council Summer Teaching Development Grants

2019 Applications for the University Teaching Council's Summer Teaching Development Grants (STDG) are now being accepted through February 1, 2019. The purpose of the STDG program is to enhance student learning by engaging faculty to improve teaching methods, develop curricula, or create innovative course materials. Proposals should address the university, college, or departmental missions, including, but not limited to the LERS/Kent Core, distance learning, interdisciplinary courses, and experiential learning. Proposals must align with the mission of the University Teaching Council (UTC):

The Council shall support and facilitate the teaching mission of the University by studying and recommending policies to enrich and enhance teaching and curriculum development, recommending priorities for support of teaching and curriculum development, recommending faculty teaching development awards, collecting information on teaching and curriculum development, and publicizing teaching and curriculum development of the University.

All STDG grants must begin during Summer I. Faculty may submit an STDG proposal for a 5-week period ($4,500) or a 10-week period ($9,000). Additionally, collaborative proposals may split a $9,000 award. Applicants are limited to one proposal.

The grant is open to all full-time faculty members from any Kent campus. Adjunct/part-time faculty members may apply as co-applicants with a full-time faculty member. Last year's recipients are not eligible to apply this year.

The grant application and a pdf of the application questions can be found here.

Four faculty members from Kent State Stark currently serve on the UTC: Marie Gasper-Hulvat (Chair), James Seelye, Gregory Smith, and Eric Taylor.
