IEW2018 Preview:

Tuesday, November 13

Tacky Tourist Tuesday
3:00 am to 5:00 pm | Bowman 124
Join us in breaking stereotypes and earn the do’s and don’ts of being abroad.

College of Arts & Sciences Office of International Programs and Education Abroad

Fashion Study Away Programs
2:00 to 4:00 pm | Rockwell Hall Atrium
Learn about study abroad opportunities at Kent State University and talk to faculty and students who have had the experience. And enjoy international food!

Office of Global Education

World Poetry Reading
7:30 to 8:30 pm | Room 130, College of Architecture and Design
One of the most popular WPC events of the year, the Wick Poetry Center’s annual World Poetry Reading is a part of Kent State’s international students, staff, and faculty. Each of the fifteen participants will take part in the shared language and experience of poetry by creating a poem of their choosing in English and their native language. The World Poetry Reading is a kind of a showcase and uniquely Kent State. This year we’re thrilled to have a diverse set of voices.

Wick Poetry Centers

Thursday, Nov. 15

Throwback Thursday
3:00 am to 5:00 pm | Bowman 124
Wear clothing from abroad and/or bring photos of your international experiences. We will hang the photos on our office.

College of Arts & Sciences Office of International Programs and Education Abroad

Theo Davis & Associates Panel Discussion
3:00 to 4:00 pm | Room 200, White Hall
This panel will provide an overview of the international student immigration process and answer your questions. A light refreshment will be served.

Office of Global Education

International Student Career Boot Camp
12:00 to 2:00 pm | Garden Room, Library
Career Exploration and Development is hosting this unique career focused event for international students during International Education Week. International students are encouraged to attend the career boot camp to: get a better understanding of the steps that go into securing employment in the United States and overseas; receive feedback on their resume and cover letter; be able to confidently and professionally answer the elevator pitch; and discuss ideas for success, gain an understanding of cultural expectations of professionalism in the U.S.A.; be able to successfully answer common but challenging interview questions, earn the Career Ready Certificate that can be added as an achievement to their resume. The boot camp is interactive and consists of sessions about careers, students will also get an opportunity to learn from a panel of KSU’s international faculty and staff about their personal journeys and experiences.

Pre-registration is recommended via handshake, but not required.

Career Exploration and Development

"The Time!" at the College of Education, Health and Human Services (EHHS)
3:00 to 4:00 pm | Room 200, White Hall
In an effort to support international students, because we are so happy you are studying with us, we would like all EHHS international Students to gather with faculty to meet and get to know them better as both instructors and advisors. Tea and light refreshments will be served.

Please let Katherine Bryk (kmurphy@kent.edu) know if you will be attending my Friday, November 9, so we can make sure we have enough treats. However, please attend even if you don’t have a chance to RSVP. We would love to see you.

School of Teaching, Learning and Curriculum Studies

Science in Japan: funded research opportunities for students and faculty in the sciences and humanities
4:00 to 5:00 pm | Room 413, Lowry Hall
Dr. Kelly Haida, director of the Washington office for the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS) and JSPS’s National Program Associate will discuss funding opportunities to conduct short- and long-term research in Japan. Other JSPS opportunities are available for graduate students, postdocs, and faculty in the sciences and humanities. The JSPS is the major funding body in Japan, similar to the United States National Science Foundation (NSF). The talk is open to all.

Department of Anthropology and the Division of Research and Sponsored Programs

For complete event description and additional information, visit www.kent.edu/globaleducation/iew2018events

All events are open to the public and free of charge unless otherwise noted