BENEFITS OF THE APPLIED LINGUISTICS PROGRAMS:

- The Institute for Applied Linguistics (IAL) is one of America’s leading university-based translator training and research programs. It is the most comprehensive undergraduate and graduate program in the U.S., with curricula that provides a firm foundation in translation studies and translation practice for students in Arabic, French, German, Japanese, Russian, and Spanish. The IAL is also an internationally renowned center for research in many areas of translation studies, including translation history and pedagogy, literary translation, computer-assisted translation, terminology and multilingual document management, and cognition, with faculty involved in authoring standards for the International Organization of Standardization (ISO) and the ASTM International.

- M.A. graduation rates exceeding 90 percent
- Excellent employment prospects
- Internship programs with language service providers
- State-of-the-art training in best practices for the language industry
- Personalized guidance by faculty for M.A. capstone project (translation/terminology/critical analysis) and doctoral seminars
- Multilingual computing laboratory, which enables students to gain hands-on experience using the latest translation and localization software
- Internationally diverse: 40% international students; 30% international faculty

FOR MORE INFORMATION:

Institute for Applied Linguistics
Dr. Francoise Massardier-Kenney, Director
314 Satterfield Hall
Kent State University
Kent, OH 44242
330-672-1792
gradstudy_mcls@kent.edu

Interested in the M.A. in Translation? Contact:
Said M. Shiyab, Professor of Translation Studies and Graduate Coordinator
sshiyab@kent.edu

Karil Klayko, Department of Modern and Classical Language Studies
kklayko@kent.edu

Find us on Facebook or visit our website at www.kent.edu/appling

THE GAWLICKI FAMILY FOUNDATION
ON-LINE MASTER OF ARTS IN TRANSLATION PROGRAM
The College of Arts & Sciences
www.kent.edu/appling
Kent State University announces the Gawlicki Family Foundation On-Line Master of Arts in Translation Program starting Fall 2018.

This new Distance Learning M.A. program will provide greater access to the most comprehensive graduate program in translation in the United States. Made possible by a grant from the Gawlicki Family Foundation, this state of the art program offers the same curriculum as the face-to-face program for students and professionals interested in pursuing their training in translation.

The courses included in the program are available asynchronously (you work in your own space, at your own pace); yet they provide you with an opportunity to interact with the instructors and your team. You have access to the program’s state-of-the-art virtual lab and all its equipment and CAT and DPT software.

ON-LINE MASTER OF ARTS IN TRANSLATION PROGRAM

Kent State University announces the Gawlicki Family Foundation On-Line Master of Arts in Translation Program starting Fall 2018.

This new Distance Learning M.A. program will provide greater access to the most comprehensive graduate program in translation in the United States.

Made possible by a grant from the Gawlicki Family Foundation, this state of the art program offers the same curriculum as the face-to-face program for students and professionals interested in pursuing their training in translation.

The courses included in the program are available asynchronously (you work in your own space, at your own pace); yet they provide you with an opportunity to interact with the instructors and your team. You have access to the program’s state-of-the-art virtual lab and all its equipment and CAT and DPT software.

Program Requirements:
- A 3.0 or higher grade point average in all undergraduate or graduate work.
- If the candidate is an international student, TOEFL scores of at least 550 (written test) or 80 (Internet based) or another certification of English proficiency acceptable to the University such as a Band of 6.5 on the IELTS (International English Language Testing System).
- Two five-minute oral statements of purpose (CD or MP3 wav audio-file) in the student’s first and second language (conversational, not read from a script). International students should submit two oral statements: one in English and one in the language for which they are applying if it is not their native language (B and C languages). The oral statement should describe the student’s experience in their second language.
- Two writing samples: A goal statement, also known as statement of purpose, in English, and a statement or essay of at least 300 words in the second language chosen by the applicant. The essay/sample can be a paper written for a class. The writing samples should be accompanied by a signed declaration that they are the applicant’s original work and that the applicant has received no help in their preparation. (The use of dictionaries and other reference work is permitted).
- Three letters of recommendation attesting to applicant’s ability to do graduate work in translation.

Program Courses:
- Research and Writing
- Documents in Multilingual Contexts
- Theory of Translation
- Practice of Translation
- Terminology and Computer Applications for Translators
- Editing for Translation
- Literary and Cultural Translation
- Commercial, Legal and Diplomatic Translation
- Scientific, Technical and Medical Translation
- Software Localization
- Project Management
- Case Study in Translation

Program Cost: $725 per credit hour

The program requires 36 semester hours of coursework over two years for full-time students, including a case study in translation.

Specific degree requirements and career information can be found at www.kent.edu/apyling